

FOUND DEAD.

The Body of an Unknown Man Discovered on the Germantown Pike.

Had Suicided With "Rough-on-Rats." No Clue as to His Identity.

At an early hour this morning, Mr. Ezekiel Kerr was passing along the Germantown pike when he discovered the dead body of an unknown man on the side of the road at a point a short distance this side of the tenant house on the Victory farm, about a quarter of a mile west of the Jersey Ridge tollgate.

The man's head was resting upon a chunk of wood, his hat was pulled down over his face, and he had the appearance of one who was in a sound sleep.

The body showed no marks of violence, and the theory at once was that the man had ended his own life by taking some drug.

The man was seen near the point twice yesterday afternoon by Dr. Reed of this city, and late last evening Mr. Joseph Richardson, Jr., and Mr. Daniels, of Jersey Ridge, while on their way to church on Lawrence Creek saw the unfortunate lying where the body was found. In response to their inquiry as to why he was there, he replied that he was sick. They advised him to go to the tenant house referred to above and told him he would likely be accommodated there with lodging for the night.

Investigation lead to-day to the discovery of a small tin bucket near by and a box of "rough-on-rats." The box had been emptied of its contents, however, which is conclusive evidence that the theory of suicide is correct.

It was thought for a while that the man was John Brown, a trampshoemaker from Roanoke, Va., who was released from the station-house here yesterday morning, but Chief of Police Fitzgerald took a look at the body when it was brought to Means' undertaking rooms and says it is not Brown.

Coroner Owens had the remains removed to Means' undertaking rooms after viewing them. In the pockets were found a pair of spectacles, a fine comb and a pocket-knife. Nothing was discovered by which the man's identity could be established.

The man was in this city yesterday and was seated on a bench at Alexander & Best's livery stable over an hour, but spoke to no one during his stay there.

He was about sixty years old, had gray whiskers and had on a pair of heavy boots, a check shirt and light suit of clothes, with a well-worn and faded dark overcoat.

Since the above was written it is learned the man registered at the St. James Hotel September 5th and 25th as "J. Martin," but did not give his place of residence.

At this term of the Circuit Court the case of John Lusk, administrator of Whett Lusk, was to have been tried, suit having been brought for the same amount as in the case of Sam Lusk, but the railroad company offered to compromise on both cases by agreeing to pay the administrator $11,000 and all costs, which was accepted.

FANT'S FANCIES.

A Flemingsburg Citizen Imagines He Sees Queer Things and Makes a Desperate Jump.

Says the Cincinnati Enquirer: "When Ed. L. Fant, of Flemingsburg, registered at the Palace Hotel Tuesday morning Clerk McCarthy noticed that he acted queerly. He could hardly register, and his appearance was that of a man who had been on a spree. McCarthy assigned him to a room on the third floor, and the guest was accompanied up stairs by a friend. Fant had only been in his room a few minutes when he asked his friend if he saw anything peculiar about the wall. The latter answered he did not, and Fant told him that he saw a lot of pink mice there.

"On being assured that what he saw were only the fancy figures on the paper, Fant was much relieved. Soon after, he commenced walking up and down the room, and several times walked out into the hall. On the last trip he suddenly uttered a cry and jumped out of the hall window, landing on the roof of the Atlantic Garden. Fireman Thompson, of the Gifts, was called, and, securing a ladder, carried Fant down from the roof. Patrol No. 1 was called and Fant removed to the hospital, where it was found that he had sustained only a few bruises. His father, William Fant, arrived at the hotel later, having come to this city to meet his son, who was on his way home from Chicago."

Fant was found wandering about the streets of Chicago last Sunday suffering from a wound on the head but an examination showed he was not seriously hurt.
